

Dear Colleagues,

Since the clinical reality and modern structures involved in the treatment of breast cancer have brought us towards a multidisciplinary path, our scientific meeting must be in line with this recent evolution in patient care.

We have, therefore, included many specialists of different clinical fields, with international speakers also contributing as discussants during various sessions. We feel strongly that reconstructive surgeons, in this era of conservative surgery, should not be without a global approach and must have constant integration with other specialists in order to maximize their effectiveness.

Consequently, we have inserted two Satellites Workshops of particular interest to plastic surgeons: one on lipofilling and the other on prosthetic materials with the aim to provide an up-date by experts in both reconstructive surgery and aesthetic surgery. Also, we could not avoid taking into consideration the impact of the current economic crisis and have paid special attention to adjusting the registration fees accordingly.

Here's to meeting you in Rome in March 2010!

Wishing you all the best in your endeavors,

Stefano Pompei M.D.
